SELLING WHISKEY.

Violators of the United States Revenue Law Arrested.Deputy Collector of Revenue S. M.
White and Deputy Sergeant J. A. Finke received intelligence Monday evening that moonshine whiskey was being sold on the lands of the Development Company. They at once went over to the Development Company's land and found a wagon which contained twelve empty kegs and two half barrels. Only one gallon of brandy was found in the wagon, which had been left in charge of a negro who claimed that he was only riding over to Franklin on the wagon and that the owners had left the wagon in charge of him while they went to the furnace.The officers then left and returned again yesterday morning, but the owners had not returned. They then confiscated the entire outfit, which consisted of two horses, a mule and wagon.
They proceeded with it to Stevens' livery stable, and when they got to Union street they met the owners, who were promptly arrested. The men were arrested because they had a keg from which the revenue stamps had not been taken.They were carried to Roanoke and given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner John Rhodes. The negro, who gave his name as Bob Cannaday, was tried and sent on to the United States Court which convenes in April. He gave bail to appear at that time. The white men, whose names are John Frailing and J. Edwards, will be tried to-morrow at two o'clock. Among the things found in the wagon was a new testament.

Send On to the Grand Jury.

Sam Webb, the young colored youth who was arrested several weeks ago on the charge of raising a one-dollar note to a ten, had a hearing yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Rhodes. He was identified by Mrs.
Love, the woman who gave him $9.75 in change after he had bought a small article, valued at 25 cents. Other witnesses also recognized him. He was sent on to the March term of the United States grand jury in Lynchburg and was carried to Salem last night by Deputy Marshal John Mills. Sam is very reticent about the affair and will not talk on the subject. It is thought by the officers that he is only a tool in the hands of a set of experienced rascals.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a dyspeptic look, and if your kidneys be affected you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic, acts directly on those vital organs. Cures pimples, blotches, boils and gives a good complexion. Sold Edwin Booth in Retirement.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Edwin Booth has since his retirement from the stage led the life almost of a recluse, which has long been natural to him. He occupies a suite of rooms at the Players' club, Gramercy park, never leaving them except on some important errand or when drawn out, well nigh literally, by the urgency of his friends. The brooding, melancholy temperament of Hamlet has always been his and has deepened with his years. He spends his time reading, smoking, rumi-nating; is glad to see his intimates when they call, but would never call on them unless charged with some most momentous mission. He values his friends highly, but by a law of his own being compels them to do the active part of friendship while he remains passive.The truth is he is one of the shiest of mortals. He is very timorous socially. He would rather lead a forlorn hope than enter a crowded drawing room. Hardly any one knows how much he suffers from an introduction to an entire stranger, or what an instinctive, uncontrollable shrinking he has from society in general. For a man who has been on the stage all his life, this appears incredible, familiar as the fact is to his friends. He has always found it exceedingly difficult to make a speech of the briefest kind, either to an audience or at a dinner table. Indeed he is as unlike an actor as it is possible to imagine, not being a tithe as egotistic or self confident as he should be for his own comfort. Nearly all his kindred have passed away except his one daughter, whom he visits regularly and in whose children he takes great interest.It is doubtful if Booth will ever return to the stage, though he is constantly receiving handsome offers to do so. He is not old—only fifty-eight—but he continues to be afflicted with dyspepsia and rheumatism, which are often burdensome.
He is tired of the theater, as he has been for years, and is not likely to go back, unless some extraordinarily energetic and shrewd manager should contrive to involve him in an engagement that he cannot escape from. Left entirely to himself, he would not have played during the last twenty years.

Wants to Get a Divorce.

The personal column of a New York daily contains this golden opportunity: "A well educated young man of good social position will marry any lady of means who will provide funds for him to procure a divorce from his present wife, whom he cannot get along with."

Chief of the Michigan League.

At the fifth annual convention of the Michigan League of Republican Clubs, held recently in Grand Rapids, Philip T.
Colgrove, of Hastings, was elected president of the organization by acclamation. The league is comprised of all the Republican clubs in the state, and is an important adjunct to the Republican state central committee.
The president of the league must have the confidence alike of the party managers and of the rank and file, and above all must be a hustler.Mr. Colgrove is thirty-four years old, was born in Indiana, was graduated from the Michigan university, and on his twenty-first birthday was admitted to the bar.
He practiced a year at Reed City and then moved to Hastings, where he has since lived, forming a partnership with Judge Clement Smith. He was elected prosecuting attorney of Barry county in 1882, and was twice re-elected, serving six years. In 1880 he was elected state senator by a plurality of 1,700, and declined a second term.
He is grand chancellor of the Michigan grand lodge of Knights of Pythias.

Had to Wear Them.

A story is told of the actress Mlle.
Marie Magnier and her pearls. One day, as she was about to appear on the scene, somebody made the remark that her pearls were really of an enormous size. "It is true," she replied; "the lady whom I represent on the stage no doubt wore smaller pearls in real life.
But what can I do? I have no small pearls."—Argonaut.

Wasted Politeness.

"Why didn't you thank that young man who rose up and gave you his seat?"
"He gave it to me because he thought I looked older than any other woman in the car. That's why I didn't thank him.
And I don't thank him!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Natural Supposition.

Gentlemen—How do you sell those chickens?
Dealer—Eighteen cents a pound.
Gentleman—Oh, I thought probably you sold them by the head.—Harper's Bazar.
